Diamond Spectacles.

THESE SPECTACLES are manufactured from "MINUTE CRYSTAL PEBBLES" melted together, and are called Diamond on account of their hardness and brilliancy. It is well known that spectacles cut from Brazilian or Scotch pebbles are very injurious to the eye, because of their polarizing light. Having been tested with the polariscope, the diamond lenses have been found to admit fifteen per cent. less heated rays than any other pebble. They are ground with great scientific accuracy, are free from chromatic abberrations, and produce a brightness and distinctness of vision not before attained in spectacles.

Manufactured by the Spencer Optical Manufacturing Company, New York. For sale by responsible agents in every city in the Union. H. A. THE MOURNFUL BALLAD OF SAD WILLIAM.

Sad William was a man of mark,
For miles and miles around
Each worthy dog at him did bark,
He ne'er was sober found.

Though dark, his brow was hung with gloom;
Deep wisdom lit his eyes.
A kind of royal purple bloom
Did on his face arise.

His voice was thick with what m'ek,
And from his lips did roll
Long cautions loud, dear youth to
To shun the sinful bowl.

And as he spake his tears would flow,
He'd mournful stop and think:
Then, shaking sad his head, he'd go
And take another drink.

Some tender friends of this sad man,
By Christian love inclined,
Did 'mong themselves a story plan
To work upon his mind.

With awful looks they told in fright
That one who drank like sin,
And, like him, went to bed each night
Exhaling clouds of gin,

Had sought to blow the candle out,
When lo! his breath took fire,
And straight he died and left no doubt
That drink had lit his pyre.

"Oh, William, think of this dread fate,"
To him these friends did say,
"And stop before it is too late.
Oh, William, do, we pray."

Then William sat him down to mourn,
They left him in his fear;
And, in the morrow's early dawn,
Said he, as they drew near,

"I've thought, with many fears and tears,
Of all you said last night,
And now I, solemn, promise you
I'll ne'er blow out a light."

SPECULATING IN "PUTS AND CALLS."

INCREASE OF THE BUSINESS IN THIS CITY—PROPORTIONATE MONOPOLY OF THE MARKET—THE THORNY PATHS TO FORTUNE THROUGH WALL STREET.

[From the New York Graphic.]

If the customer has $1,000 which he feels disposed to risk on Erie, the broker will buy for him one hundred shares, accepting his one thousand dollars, which is 10 per cent. of the par value of the stock, as the margin. The buyer will be "long in stock" or a "bull," and will desire a rise in prices, so as to enable him to sell at a profit. If during the time that the stock is thus held by the broker for his account the price of it should depreciate to within a few per cent. of the margin deposited by the buyer the broker will call upon him to cover his margin, that is, to deposit an additional 10, 15, or 25 per cent. to insure him, the broker, against loss, and the buyer is obliged to put up this additional margin, or to suffer his stock to be sold at the reduced price to which it has fallen.

In the latter case the broker returns to the principal all that is left of the margin less the broker's commission, and he is without further danger of loss, but in most cases the principal is inclined to back his judgment or his luck to the utmost extent of his means and credit before he retires from the game. Of course there is a brighter side to the picture, for whatever one person loses in a stock transaction some other person is sure to gain; but the above will serve as an illustration, and it is, moreover the aspect of the case that the neophyte in Wall street is most likely to become acquainted with.

In the case of the purchaser of "puts," "calls," or "straddles," there is an ingenious variation in the game which has proven very popular, especially among small operators, although it must not be supposed that this mode of speculating is by any means confined to this class. The purchaser of a "call" buys the privilege of purchasing or "calling" for, from the seller, a certain number of shares of a certain stock, at a specified price, at any time within a certain specified period, and the seller of the "call" contracts thereby to buy the said stock at the said price, if required, within the said period.

The purchaser of a "put" purchases the privilege of selling or "putting" to the seller a certain number of shares of a certain stock, at a certain price, at any time within a certain specified period, and the seller pledges himself to buy the said stock upon the terms specified.

A "straddle" or a "double privilege" gives the purchaser the right to either buy or sell the stock, according to the terms specified in the contract.

For a simple "put" or "call" upon one hundred shares of any stock for thirty days the price is generally one hundred dollars; for a "straddle," or a "put" and "call" combined, the price ranges from $250 to $150 for the same length of time.

A few of the houses in the business also sell "half-puts" and half-calls," controlling fifty shares each, for $50; and a not uncommon way for men of small means to operate in privileges is for ten men to form a pool, to which each contributes ten dollars, making $100, for the purchase of one "put" or "call."

To illustrate the system by figures the following case is given, which is taken from an exceedingly attractive little book issued by a house which does a large business in "brokers' privileges." The little book supposes the case of a customer who at the time of Jay Gould's famous corner in Northwestern, bought a "call" on 100 shares of that stock at 79 the current quotation of that state, November 11, 1872, being 77. In eleven days from that time as all the world knows, Northwestern went up to 200, and this supposititious but exceedingly lucky customer of the publishers of the little book of course "called for his stock, sold it, and cleared the modest sum of $11,987.50 on his investment of $106.25 for eleven days. The account current in the little book stands as follows:

100 shares of stock November 22 at 200	$20,000.00
Less amount paid for same at 79	7,900.00
Profit	$12,100.00
Less cash ($100) paid for call and broker's commissions ($6,25 on each transactions	112,50
Net profit	$11,987.50

If this transaction ever occurred, and the call was signed by Jay Gould, the buyer was an exceedingly lucky man; but the little book is considerate enough to state, immediately under this brilliant example, that "the above profits given by way of illustration, must not be always expected."

NITRO GLYCERINE.

A narrow escape from a terrific explosion with nitro-glycerine, recently occurred, near Fort Ticonderoga, N. Y. Prof. Mowbray's team, with 1200 pounds of tri-nitro glycerine, after three days travel from this village toward the Fort, was directed to cross, on the ice, an armlet of Lake Champlain, and a man was detailed from the railroad, there building, to point out the safest route to the magazine, about half a mile distant. The lake was crossed in safety and the team was following the route indicated for the magazine, when, at a point where the road had washed out, the off fore wheel rolled off, the wagon tilted, and in spite of the efforts of four men who were holding it up, went over the bluff, turning the nitro-glycerine and exploders bottomside up with such force as to break a leaf of the hind spring of the wagon. The king bolt released the horses, but the men didn't wait to see this. As soon as the upset was seen to be inevitable, they raced away from the expected explosion, leaving the teamster and horses to their fate. The explosive, however, having been prepared for the journey and its possible contingences, did not ignite and after some twenty minutes' delay the journey was resumed and the glycerine soon safely stored in the magazine. Altogether, Prof. Mowbray thinks that this was a pretty thorough test of the sensitiveness of his glycerine preparation, and an event calculated to give the authorities at Fort Ticonderoga considerable confidence in nitro-glycerine from the Hoosac tunnel.—[Hoosac Valley News.

FARM FENCES.

Fencing has become one of the most important considerations demanding the attention of the farmers; and it is wonderful that they should so long submit to the want of proper legislation in their respective states, which would relieve them from this most expensive and unnecessary burden.

An impression almost as old as our country itself seems to exist that public roads are public property, and that grass which grows upon them is the common property of all the inhabitants, upon which their cattle may be turned to pasture. This is a great mistake, and one which requires immediate correction, if for no other reason than that it is a very expensive one to farmers. Public roads, are to be sure, public property, but only for special purposes. While the public have the right to pass and repass over them, they have no other right than this, which the law gives them, and no more substantial claim to pasture their cattle upon the road than upon the other side of the fence, in their neighbor's field. The law allows the public to use the land occupied by the road to travel over, and whenever they cease, either by operation of law or otherwise, to use for that purpose, it again becomes the property of the owner of the farm through which it passes. This is the fee-simple right. It is very unjust that either he who owns no land, or, owning it, prefers to use that of his neighbors, should be indulged in so manifest a wrong. It is the duty of the legislatures of all the thickly-settled states to protect the agricultural interests of the country, by providing that cattle shall not run at large but that every man shall be compelled to take care of and feed his own stock, instead of turning it loose upon the highway to depredate upon the possessions of his neighbor.

Money expended in fencing against these depredations of strange cattle is sometimes disbursed so gradually that the farmer does not actually realize how great is the loss.

Newport Daily News.

THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1874.

THE DAY.

Mr. Pratt has telegraphed to us that the prohibitory law has passed both houses and has become a law.

At a meeting in Providence today the leading merchants of the city succeeded in stopping the efforts to throw the Sprague Manufacturing Company into bankruptcy.

Two thousand poor people were turned away from St John's Chapel with their last weekly supply of provisions, Monday, and over one thousand Tuesday. They were told that unless money or food was placed at the disposal of the guild at once, its gates would have to close. St. John's Guild has cared for 31,000 poor for the last six weeks. Two thousand and six hundred quarts of strawberries have arrived at New York from the south within a week, and they appear on the tables of all the fashionable restaurants.

LET US HAVE PEACE.

It is a pity that something cannot be done to put a stop to the disgraceful scenes which are enacted in our city upon the slightest alarm of fire. For two evenings past our streets have been given over to a lawless element, and the engines and hose carriages are apparently used solely for the amusement of the boys and half grown men who have them in charge. There is only one good that can possibly grow out of this evil and that is the Fire Alarm Telegraph. The apathy of our citizens upon this important subject is surprising. Some advocates of temperance reform are willing to consent to free rum in its broadest sense that the luke warm friends of the young may thus be aroused to the alarming evils of the liquor traffic. Matters connected with our fire department are rapidly approaching the point when every good citizen will cry out earnestly for a reform which will rid the community of the evil and remove from the department an item of expense which is not inconsiderable.

EXIT SANBORN.

The suit against Sanborn for defrauding the government has come to an inglorious end, because in the opinion of the court the contract between Secretary Boutwell and Sanborn gave the latter his little fifty per cent. of certain taxes, however and by whomsoever collected. Now we would like to hear from Mr. Boutwell. This noble patriot is a party to one of the most outrageous and inexcusable frauds on the national treasury that was ever attempted. Congress authorized him to contract with three persons to assist the regular officials in the collection of the revenues and he immediately [illegible] of contract with Sanborn whereby [illegible] made a officials are directed [illegible] the regular and whereby Sanborn [illegible] to assist Sanborn of all of certain [illegible] is to receive one half was com[illegible] classes of taxes whether he sam[illegible] connected with the collection of the [illegible] or not. As Secretary of the Treasury and as a lecturer on political economy Mr. Boutwell repeatedly showed his utter ignorance of finance and his incompetence to discharge the duties of his office, and now it appears that stupidly or criminally, we know not which, he made a contract to pay over to one Sanborn one half of legacy and some other taxes due the government whether Sanborn assisted in their collection or not, and, furthermore, he directed his subordinates who were paid by the government, to serve Sanborn. This is our late minister of finance and the man that Massachusetts delighted last year to honor! We are not surprised that Butler was anxious to secure this man's election. This contract is so thoroughly Butlerish and Butler himself has made so much out of it as "counsel" for Sanborn that the ardent affection of the Lowell general for the member from Groton is perfectly intelligible. The only puzzle in looking at these Siamese twins is to tell just where Boutwell ends and Butler begins.

These two busy Bs are unfortunately not the only ones implicated in this wholesale abstraction of honey from the national hive. The present Secretary of the Treasury and his assistant sit by and blink their eyes and seem surprised to learn from an investiga-their own Denmark. Sawyer says he has been signing papers in connection with the Sanborn affair "in his official capacity" without reading the papers at all. A female ting committee that something is rotten in clerk at $900 a year would probably do just as well as Sawyer for this sort of work.

Richardson, who is paid by the nation to look after its interests, repents the infamous order of his predecessor and never takes the trouble to examine the iniquitous business and call the attention of Congress to the fact that the nation is paying fifty per cent. of its dues to one man irrespective of any labor rendered by him. Butler, Boutwell, Richardson, Sawyer happy country that possesses such honest and able and patriotic men to look after her interests!

THE POWER OF [illegible] THE PRESS.

THE NEW YO[illegible] WORLD EXAMINES THE RECORD OF T[illegible] CHICAGO TRIBUNE AND THINKS ITS INFLUENCE DOES NOT AMOUNT TO MUCH.

The Chicago Tribune supported Mr. Wentworth against Mr. Farwell in the first Congressional district in 1870, and Mr. Wentworth was defeated. It took a prominent part in the Liberal movement, and its Free Trade followers could not prevent the nomination of Greeley at Cincinnati. Its assistance at the polls in November enabled the Democrats of Illinois to cast 15,000 votes less than they had cast in 1868, while in Cook county Grant's majority was increased from 8,423 to 12,879. In 1873 it supported Mr. Trumbull for the Senatorship with fatal results. Then it ran Chief-Justice Lawrence for the supreme bench, thus taking up the railroad nominee against the candidate of the farmers, and he was beaten. Then it tried to force the reformers of Wisconsin to nominate another railroad man, Mr. Washburne, for the gubernatorial chair; but they wisely declined its advice, and, despite the evil prophecies which it croaked, beat the Tribune's "most popular and available candidate" worse than any other man on the Radical ticket. Then it wept over Ohio and predicted the defeat of Mr. Allen by from 80,000 to 100,000, and he was elected. Then in Chicago it ran a "law-and order ticket" in the municipal elections, and the party which had gone into power in 1872 with 11,037 majority was defeated by 10,256, and its candidate for the city treasurship proved immediately after the election, a confirmed defaulter in the sum of $590,000. It might be added that in 1872 it bent itself most vigorously to defeat Mr. Reed for the state's attorneyship, singling him out as the weakest man on the Republican county ticket, and, unless we are grossly mistaken, he not only ran far ahead of his ticket but led the Republican nominees for governor and President.

SIMON JENNINGS.

HOW A GOOD LITTLE BOY GOT THRASHED FOR DOING PRECISELY AS HE WAS TOLD TO DO.

Among the scholars when Lamb and Coleridge were at the Blue Coat School was a poor clergyman's son, by the name of Simon Jennings. On account of his dismal and gloomy nature, his playmates had nicknamed him Pontius Pilate. One morning he went up to the master, Dr. Boyer, and said in his usual whimpering manner, "Please, Dr. Boyer, the boys call me Pontius Pilate." If there was one thing which old Boyer hated more than a false quantity in Greek and Latin, it was the practice of nicknaming. Rushing down among the scholars from his pedestal of state, with cane in hand, he cried, with his usual voice of thunder, "Listen, boys; the next time I hear any of you say 'Pontius Pilate,' I'll cane you as long as this cane will last. You are to say 'Simon Jennings,' and not 'Pontius Pilate.' Remember that, if you value your hides." Having said this, Jupiter Tonans remounted Olympus, the clouds still hanging on his brow. Next day, when the same class were reciting the catechism, a boy of a remarkably dull and literal turn of mind had to repeat the creed. He had got as far as "suffer under," and was about popping out the next word, when Boyer's prohibition unluckily flashed upon his obtuse mind. After a moment's hesitation, he blurted, out, "Suffered under Simon Jennings creci"—— The rest of the word was never uttered, for Boyer had already sprung like a tiger upon him, and the cane was descending upon his unfortunate shoulders like a Norwegian hail storm or an Alpine avalanche. When the irate doctor had discharged his cane storm upon him, he cried, "What do you mean, you booby, by such blasphemy?" "I only did as you told me," replied the simple-minded Christchurchian. "Did as I told you?" roared old Boyer, now wound up to something above the boiling point. "What do you mean?" As he said this, he instinctively grasped his cane more furiously. "Yes, doctor, you said we were always to call 'Pontius Pilate' 'Simon Jennings.' Didn't he Sam?" appealed the unfortunate culprit to Coleridge, who was next to him. Sam said naught; but old Boyer, who saw what a dunce he had to deal with, cried, "Boy, you are a fool. Where are your brains?" Poor Dr. Boyer for a second time was floored; for the scholar said, with an earnestness which proved its truth, but to the intense horror of the learned potentato, "In my stomach, sir." The doctor always respected that boy's stupidity ever after, as though half afraid that a stray blow might be unpleasant.

CHANCES.

THE NUMBER OF CHANGES THAT CAN BE MADE IN A PACK OF CARDS, A MUSICAL OCTAVE, AND THE ALPHABET, – THE PROBABILITIES IN FAVOR OF RESULTS OBTAINED BY THE SPECTROSCOPE.

Mr. Jevons has shown with some prominence the necessity for a clear idea of the vast number of combinations and permutations possible under certain conditions before we can adequately understand the difficulties which beset us in certain branches of science. The magnitude of those numbers is rarely comprehended. Thus, in dealing a pack of cards the number of hands of thirteen cards each which can be produced is 635,013,559,600. But in whist four hands are simultaneously held, and the number of distinct deals becomes then so vast that it would require twenty eight figures to express it: or, as has been shown by Lubbock, if the whole population of the world, say one hundred thousand millions of persons, were to deal cards day and night for a hundred millions of years, they would not in that time have exhausted one hundred thousandth part of the possible deals.

Musical composers, too, may take heart. The eight notes of a single octave give more than 40,000 permutations, and two octaves more than a million millions. There is, therefore, ample room still left for the production of novelty in ordinary melody. As regards literature, the number of combinations that may be made out of the difference of white paper and black ink are not only inconceivable but incalculable. The pronounceable combinations of the twenty-six letters alone are probably several trillions. But to show the rapidity with which results grow, we have only to contemplate the lower powers of 2. The second step gives us 4, the third 16, the fifth 75,536, and so on, till presently we reach a number which requires no less than 19,729 figures to express it.

We need not dwell upon the theory of probabilities with any view to further explanation. For that we must refer to the work itself. But it may be well to indicate some of the applications of it in science. On comparing the spectra of sunlight and of the light proceeding from the incandescent vapor of iron, it is found that there are sixty bright lines in the latter which correspond with sixty dark lines in the former. The inference that iron exists in the sun is not, therefore, a certainty. But we can ascertain how near it comes to a certainty. What are the chances in favor of its being either a casual coincidence or a fact? The average distance of the solar lines is two millimetres. If we throw down a line, as it were by pure chance, the probability is about one-half that the new line will fall within half a millimetre on one side or the other of one of the solar lines. The probability of casual coincidence of each iron line with a solar line is in like manner one-half. Coincidence, if arising casually, in the case of each of the sixty lines, would, therefore, have a probability represented by the sixtieth power of one-half, or less than one in a trillion. The odds, in short, against such a casual coincidence are more than a million million millions to one. And the probability that iron does exist in the sun is equally great, and therefore amounts practically to a certainty.

Applying the same doctrine to astronomy, what are the estimates we can form as to the general tendency of stars to move in one direction being the result of chance, or due to some one great cause? Laplace calculated it with reference only to the planetary system. In his time forty three motions were known—the orbital motions of eleven planets and of eighteen satellites, and forty three motions, independent of each other, would coincide by chance in the forty second power of one half. The odds, therefore, in favor of there being some common cause for the similarity of motion are 4,400,000,000,000 to one which practically amounts to a certainty. Moreover, these odds are now vastly multiplied through the increased knowledge we possess since Laplace made his calculation.

BREAKING UP OLD PASTURES.

A correspondent in the city, who amuses his leisure hours with the management of a farm, asks, "Is there any advantage in our country in keeping up old pasture fields, as in the old country? There they are not tempted to turn up sod for Indian corn as we are. Is this the reason for their partiality for old pasture fields, and for their rarity with us? I have a beautiful six acre field without a stone in it, with a turf like lawn, on which I have kept a few sheep and cattle for years, and which I intended to keep for permanent pasture, but my farmer is always urging me to let him put in corn: 'It would give me such a beautiful crop,' says he."

Farmers in the old country probably have as much temptation to plough up old pastures as we have, and with the somewhat uncertain tenure of tenants at will, they doubtless need the restraint of the landlord's interest to prevent their doing so. We are usually landlord and tenant rolled into one, and our hope of immediate profit should always be tempered by our forethought as permanent owners. I have but one word of advice for any one who proposes to break up good grass land for the sake of growing a crop of corn, that is—"Don't." In the first place, to a man who needs grass, whether for hay or for pasture, nothing is so valuable as a well sodded field. The only reason for ploughing it should be to seed it down again, and this may nearly or quite always be obviated by other means. The harrow, fresh seed; and above all, top dressing and kind treatment in the way of a blanket of fall growth to carry it through the winter, will renovate and perpetuate a sod on any land that is fit for grass at all. If you have such a field as you describe, cherish it as the apple of your eye. It may take you years and years to restore it if you once break it up. [Ogden Farm Papers.

Corns.—Relief in five minutes. DR. CRISPIN, 179 Broad street, Providence, R. I.

PIMPLES AND HUMORS ON THE FACE.—In this condition of the skin, the VEGETINE is the great remedy as it acts directly upon the cause. It cleanses and purifies the blood, thereby causing humors of all kinds to disappear.

Something certain at last.—PILES is not only one of the most painful of human diseases, but professional men had almost despaired of finding a remedy, until the introduction of Anakesis by Dr. SILSBEE, and after an experience of 20,000 cases in five years, doctors agree that an infallible remedy has been found. Sufferers will appreciate Anakesis after trying everything else in vain and then experiencing the bliss of instant relief and ultimate cure. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Principal Depot, 46 Walker st., New York.

No Name.

Many, many people suffer from they know not what. They are not sick—they are not well. There is no name for it. It is simply weakness—a breaking down of the vital forces. Whatever its causes (and they are innumerable), its symptoms are in the main the same. Among the most prominent are extreme lassitude, loss of appetite, loss of flesh, and great mental depression. Indigestion and a stomach cough are also frequently concomitants of this distressing state of body and of mind. The common remark in relation to persons in such a condition is, that they are consumptive. Now, what these unfortunates really want is vigor, vital strength, and as certainly as dawn succeeds darkness, they can recuperate their systems and regain perfect health by resorting to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is as clear that a life-reviving tonic is required in such cases, as that the dying flame of an empty lamp requires to be revived be a new supply of oil. Perfectly pure and innocuous, containing nothing but the most genial vegetable extracts, and combining the three grand elements of a stomachic, an alterative, and a genial invigorant. Hostetter's Bitters are suitable to all constitutions, and are as applicable to the diseases and disabilities of the feebler sex as to those of men. No words can do justice to its marvelous properties. It stands pre-eminent among the health restoring preparations of the age, and every year adds to its fame, not only in this country, but the[illegible] the civilized world.

Astral Oil.

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL.

WHAT IS IT! Astral Oil is a derivative of petroleum, produced by a new and improved process of manufacture, which gives it all the good, without any of the objectionable qualities of ordinary refined Kerosene. Explosion is guarded against, and families can burn ASTRAL OIL WITH THE SAME ASSURANCE OF SAFETY AS THEY CAN GAS.

ITS QUALITIES—It is perfectly pure, containing no mixtures or chemicals. It gives a clear, uniform and beautiful light, unequalled even by gas. It is free from objectionable odors. It burns in the ordinary kerosene lamps. It is always uniform in quality.

ITS SAFETY—The Astral Oil may be relied upon as non-explosive and in every way perfectly safe to use. If, while burning, a lamp be upset and broken the contents will not explode or take fire. It is the safest oil that can be made. Persons once using it will have no other. For sale by Grocers generally. d29

Newport Daily News,

THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1874.

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM NEW YORK.

Probable Plan of Captain General Concha.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Havana letters say the new captain General Concho, when he arrives, will propose a temporary cessation of hostilities, to be followed by a formal treaty of peace. The basis of the treaty will include a pledge that the island shall remain united to the crown of Spain, that the people shall elect representatives to the Cortes, that slavery shall only be interfered with by the consent of owners, and in case an emancipation should be decreed, then owners of slaves are to be indemnified.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Freight Train Destroyed at Port Jervis.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., April 1.—An engine and eleven freight cars were demolished and then burned in consequence of a collision last night. No person was injured.

Strike at a Maryland Cotton Mill.

BALTIMORE, April 1.—A strike occurred yesterday afternoon at the cotton factory of Gambril & Sons, at Woodbury, Baltimore county. The entire number of operatives, 375 men, women and children left work. They have been working twelve hours per day and demand a reduction to ten hours, which the employers refuse to concede.

Disastrous Conflagration in Millerstown, Pa.—Seven Persons Burned to Death.

MILLERSTOWN, PA., April 1.—A fire broke out here this morning in the Central Hotel by which seven persons were burned to death. Their bodies were recovered. The following is a list of the bodies found: Norah Carty of Pleasantville; George Deet, a German; Captain Oliver, an oil operator; Martin Phillips and Sanford Acert, drillers; and one whose name could not be ascertained. Nellie McCarty jumped from the third story of the Central House and was badly injured, but still alive. All the buildings on the east side of Main street, from Fredericks's hardware and grocery store including the Central and Harlem houses, the Opera House Reed & Durant's hardware store, Sink's Hotel and two other buildings south: on the west side of Main street, from Red Frank's "shebang" north, including the Butler county bank, the United Pipe line office, the express office, the Middletown savings bank, Watermann's grocery, up to Schneider's billiard saloon; on Slippery Rock street, on the north side from Frederick's boot and shoe store west to Barnert's grocery store, and from Hook's dwelling on the south side of Slippery Rock street, east to Ruff's laundry, making sixty-nine buildings in all, were burned. More persons are thought to have been burned, but it is not yet known. The loss, as far as ascertained, is $252,800, and the insurance was $51,350.

The Erie Trouble.—The Troops to Leave Soon.

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—Governor Hartranft yesterday instructed General Osborne in command of the military at Susquehanna Depot, to dispense with the troops as soon as, in his judgment, the circumstances would permit. General Osborne replies, this morning that he would leave with his entire command today, as early as he could get transportation. The first regiment will reach here early tomorrow morning.

Coal Miners' Strike in Ohio—Columbus Police sent for.

COLUMBUS, O., April 1.—The coal miners at Hocking Valley are on a strike, and a party of Columbus police went to Straitsville today to preserve order. The cause of the strike is reported as follows: This year the operators wish to weigh the coal, while heretofore they have paid for bank measure in the mine. The miners ask three cents per bushel, or seventy five cents per ton and pay for nut coal, and pay for the year three cents.

The Times on the Panic.

LONDON, April 1.—The Times acknowledges the existence of a financial panic in London, and attributes it to the effort of those with which New York and Vienna have been visited, combined with depressing influences of the Indian famine. It says the check to the trade will probably be as severe as in any former instance.

The Decatur Co., Iowa, Court House Burned.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, April 1.—A dispatch from Gorden Grove, states that the Decatur county, Iowa, Court House, was burned yesterday. All the records were destroyed, but the money in the treasurer's office, some $35,000, was saved.

NEW YORK ITEMS.

Three of the worst policy shops in this vicinity were broken up in Brooklyn by the police, Monday.

Two men were arrested Tuesday in Harlem, charged with throwing vitriol in the face of editor Gibson, of the Harlem paper.

Wesley Lyon, a lawyer, has commenced a suit for slander against Judge Dowling, the latter having charged the former with being connected with the bond robbers.

Callender will be tried again for taking bribes from the Ocean Bank when he was Bank Examiner. It is stated that Callender borrowed over half a million dollars from various banks on bogus securities.

A firm in Brooklyn having discharged all the society men of the cooper's organization, Monday, some hundred gathered around their works, and trouble was prevented only by the presence of large numbers of police.

The coroner's jury in Jersey City have rendered a verdict of criminal carelessness against John McClellan, telegraph signal operator, by which the collision was caused at Point of Rocks, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, Saturday evening, and two men killed. McClellan has been committed to await trial.

The Methodist ministers of this city have been requested to select two ladies from each congregation to form a central temperance union of Christian women. The Methodist ministers at their meeting, were addressed by Rev. Robert M. Hatfield, of Ohio, who characterized the crusade in that state as the most remarkable event which had occurred since the day of Pentecost. He said also that both political parties in Ohio favored the license system, but it would be buried 10,000 feet deep at the coming election.

At an anti-inflation meeting of the citizens of the fifth Congressional district, Tuesday evening, resolutions were adopted requesting Congress to increase the taxation on property sufficient to gradually diminish our public debt; favoring the substitution of national Treasury notes or greenbacks for national bank notes; favoring a tax on national bonds, taxation upon public lands given away to railroad companies, and that the safety and well being of our country depends upon a return to the constitutional currency and system of finance, and to a more zealous adherence to the constitution of the Union. A memorial embodying the spirit of the resolutions was also adopted, and ordered to be forwarded to the Senate and House of Representatives.

A young man named John Short, formerly engaged in the business of distilling whiskey, was convicted about eight years ago of having committed various burglaries on Staten Island and was sent to Sing Sing. He has just concluded his term of servitude, and made his appearance again upon the island yesterday dressed in a good suit of clothes, with gold watch and chain, wearing diamond pin, and carrying a carpet-bag containing upwards of $4000 in greenbacks, which he said he had made while in prison by distilling whiskey from the refuse of the prison kitchen and selling it to his fellow-convicts. It appears that Short has been extremely fortunate in his business, and despite the supposed eternal watchfulness of the prison officials, his industry has not been seriously interfered with.

BLOCK ISLAND.

A correspondent of the Hartford Courant, thus speaks of Rhode Island's ocean possessions:

Those who are accustomed to visit this old-fashioned island out in the ocean, will be interested to know that a decided improvement has been made in the accommodations to be found there by the addition of a first-class hotel. The Hon. Nicholas Ball, a wealthy resident of the place, has just finished a fine hotel, with sixty lodging rooms above the first floor, and furnished with the modern improvements—gas, hot and cold water, etc. The hotel is situated near the harbor, on the bluffs, above the government dock, in a lot containing about five acres. In front is a beautiful lawn of about two acres, running down to the edge of the high bank above the waves of the Atlantic. From the verandah all kinds of sailing craft may be seen, from the European steamers and the vessels plying between New York and Boston, down to the queer built crafts of the Block Islanders, bobbing up and down on the blue waves a little way from shore. To the north and below the site of the hotel is the harbor, with its government breakwater and docks, fishing vessels, pleasure yachts, and an occasional steamboat; the whole enclosed in a semi-circle made by "Two-mile Beach," with the waves dashing along its edge and breaking with foam upon its smooth, white surface. Further on, the extreme northern part of the island appears, towards which the summer visitor, just up from his after-dinner nap, looks with anxious eye to the Juniata rounding its point, bearing Capt. Card and the latest news from Stonington. At the extreme north-western point of the island is the lighthouse. It is a lonely spot, fraught with great danger to commerce, and many vessels have been wrecked here. The ill-fated Metis was run into about half way between this point and Watch Hill. A new lighthouse has been placed on the high cliffs at the southern end of the island during the past Autumn. The Spring House, a little further up from the harbor, is neat and attractive. It has a fine view of the ocean. The queer plaster of Paris fence is in fine contrast with the green lawn which it encloses.

To any one who wishes to get away from railroads, telegrams, high prices, and book agents, this quiet island affords a safe retreat. You may walk over its green fields, with its quaint old windmills, look around among the old fish houses down in the harbor, littered up with old anchors, rusty cable chains, and the remains of vessels wrecked on the breakers just outside, or walking along the eastern shore you may find growing under the cliffs, that rarest of flowers, the pimpernel. An irresistable inclination to sleep seems to possess all who visit this island. It seems to be a land of dreams, and the wearied guest falls asleep with the sound of the waves beating on the shore.

ALL HANDS ON BOARD!—The Scientific American asks: "Why should not a child be taught to write and draw with both hands? The very natural echo is, 'Why?' The human body can be educated to do almost anything. Men have written with their toes and done all sorts of wonderful things with their teeth; and yet since the creation of man that intelligent animal seems to have regarded the left hand as a sort of tender to the right. In fact, the left hand is the laziest member of the human body. When the right is scribbling away for dear life the left looks on placidly; keeps down the paper with its fingers and shows its rings. In truth the only things in which it seems to excel, except when occasionally helping its big brother in an indifferent sort of way, consist in hitting from the shoulder in a prize fight, and in using a fork to advantage. The left hand is always too pretty to do any work. Ladies show off its lines of beauty while delicately resting their lovely chin upon its fingers. Let a poor fellow have his right hand shot away, and then just see what the left can do! In a wonderfully short space of time it can button a coat, write a letter and do things which, in its palmy days, it never dreamt of. By all means educate the left hand and if it will not work make it. There is nothing in the world to hinder a man writing two letters at once, like Ristori in "Queen Elizabeth," and keeping up an animated conversation with his unruly member at the same time. The left hand was given to man to do its share in the business of life, just as much as its twin brother in boots. At present it is a kind of a loafer, doing the gentle pressure business in love affairs, and having all the fun. We are down on left hands, and strongly recommend that they be put to school."

About ten months since a man calling himself J. Anderson opened a store in Cincinnati for the sale of notions and cutlery. During the past month he made very extensive time purchases, informing dealers that he was going to place a lot of wagons on the road to sell to country dealers at wholesale. Monday his store was closed and empty, and Anderson not to be found. It is supposed he has fled to Canada. The value of the goods not paid for is about $100,000.

PATENT

PARABOLA SPECTACLES.

Constructed in accordance with the Philosophy of Nature.

ADMIRABLY ADAPTED TO THE ORGAN OF SIGHT, AND AFFORDING ALTOGETHER THE BEST ARTIFICIAL

Help to the Human Vision.

The Parabola Glasses can be used for the greatest length of time, either by day or night, with perfect ease, (when selected to suit the state of the eye,) and never cause that giddiness of the head, or unpleasant sensation to the eyes that many experience from using the common kind, but tend to strengthen and improve the sight.

[From the Rev. Thomas Potter, Norwich Conn.]

Having used a pair of the Parabola Spectacles, I am fully persuaded of their superiority over every other kind, and am confident that the best recommendations are impartial trials. THOMAS POTTER.

(From the Hon. Isaac Hill, late Governor of New Hampshire.)

I have used the Parabola Spectacles for the last three years; and with eyes prematurely injured by severe catarrh for more than forty years, I find them unsurpassed, especially in night reading. ISAAC HILL.

[From M. G. Kerr, M. D., Norristown, Pa.]

I do most willingly bear my testimony in favor of the superiority of the Patent Parabola over all other kinds of Spectacles. They are constructed upon the best established and understood principles of Optics, and their adaptation to the human Eye in the different conditions of vision is so perfect as to render sight easy without effort. In my opinion, none others should be used, since the Eyes once used to these do not seem to grow old, and by having a focus at any point of the surface they appear to restore the eyes to their youthful energy. M. G. KERR, M. D.

[From Isaac Heister, M. D., Reading, Pa.]

I have for several years worn the Patent Parabola Spectacles, and have found them decidedly superior to the Spectacle glasses heretofore in use.

ISAAC HEISTER, M. D.

☞ Should the focus of these Glasses, after making trial of them, be found not adapted to the sight, purchasers are particularly requested to have them changed until suited.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures by its mild, healing properties, to which the disease yields as when the system has been put in perfect order with Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which should be taken earnestly to correct blood and system, which are always at fault, also to act specifically, upon the diseased glands of the nose and its chambers. Catarrh Remedy should be applied with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, with which medicine can be carried high up and perfectly applied to all parts of passages and chambers in which sores and ulcers exist, and from which discharge proceeds. So successful has this course of treatment proven, that the proprietor offers $500 Reward for a case of "Cold in Head" or Catarrh which he cannot cure.
